The above cross indexed list covers nearly everything in Lindo Nursery's collection. This has been prepared to help collectors in choosing varieties and making known what varieties are propagated here. We do not offer all of these for sale inasmuch as we do not have some of them in quantity as yet. However, we will be glad to have your inquiries and will give you any further information as to availability, size, price and description of any of this material.

This collection has been built up over a period of thirty years and we are still collecting new and rare varieties. It is our aim to be able to furnish as nearly as possible every good variety of Camellia.

We take a great deal of pride in the quality and vigor of the stock we offer. It has been our pleasure to receive many fine letters from customers who have told us of the vigor and ease with which our Camellias grow and become established in their gardens. We feel this is due to the reserve strength these plants have when leaving our Nursery. This together with the fact that our soil is light and fuses readily with other soils makes LINDO NURSERY CAMELLIAS particularly easy to establish after transplanting.

There is nothing more gratifying to us than a satisfied customer and it is toward this end that we continually aim.
